About
Partner for Promotion (PfP) is a collaboration of The Ohio State University College of Pharmacy faculty and students with community pharmacists. The goal is to provide training and guidance for implementing expanded patient care services to students and community pharmacy preceptors. It also strives to develop a collaborative environment in which students and preceptors who are interested in creating and implementing expanded patient care services in community pharmacies are partnered together to develop these services.

PfP has collaborated with many different pharmacies and pharmacy companies in Ohio and across the country. These partnerships include chain drug stores, chain grocery stores, chain big-box stores, and independent pharmacies.

How does the program work?
Pharmacists and students receive training and mentorship from College of Pharmacy faculty through implementation of clinical services during a one year experience. Students work closely with the pharmacist and Ohio State faculty to establish at least one patient care service that will be sustainable by pharmacy staff at the site. Community pharmacists and students collaborate with university and community resources such as local OSU Extension Educators to enhance the accessibility of community pharmacy services to patients.

Types of Services
A variety of services can be implemented:

- Medication Therapy Management (MTM)
- Immunizations
- Wellness and Prevention Screenings and Services
- Specialty Medications
- Disease State Management
- Compounding

Sixteen Ohio counties have had pharmacies involved in the PfP Program since 2005. Additional sites outside of Ohio were located in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Washington.
