

Code of Conduct

In alignment with Ohio State's Shared Values, the College of Pharmacy aims to cultivate a culture of excellence that values integrity, ethics, and equal opportunity in all aspects of the college's endeavors. We are committed to creating a supportive intellectual community. All members of the College of Pharmacy are expected to uphold these values so everyone can feel welcome, respected, and supported as a part of the community.

A healthy community is one where each of us can work through interpersonal differences, remain open to constructive feedback, and correct inappropriate behavior. We will work to foster a supportive community for all.

Pharmacy Buckeyes are expected to exhibit appropriate conduct in their role at all times regardless of location: on campus, while teleworking, at conferences, on rotation, etc. This includes compliance with all relevant university policies and standards. Inappropriate behavior includes conduct that is discriminatory, demeaning, derogatory, harassing, or abusive; unwelcome sexual attention; and unwelcome physical contact. Inappropriate behavior may incur proportional consequences intended to provide education, foster dialogue, and restore collegiality.

Beyond refraining from inappropriate behavior, we ask that all members of the community make a proactive effort to be mindful about how they engage with others in order to build a welcoming and supportive environment. As such, we commit to the following Code of Conduct:

Respect and Support All College Community Members

1

Be courteous in your interactions. Strive to live the Platinum Rule: treat others how they want to be treated. This includes considering how individual needs may vary from your own, as well as creating space for people to communicate their needs.

2

Respect the professional, physical, and personal boundaries of members.

3

Give members a chance to voice their thoughts. Seek to listen with attention and speak with intention.

4

Ensure all members have equal access to professional and academic opportunities.

5

Offer feedback with intentionality. Celebrate accomplishments and growth. When necessary, ensure critique is constructive and aims to create an opportunity for learning.

6

Avoid judging, discriminating, or making unwelcome jokes or disparaging remarks.

7

Be aware of power differentials between academic stages (undergraduate, graduate, postdoc, staff, faculty) and act to protect and empower all members.

8

Conduct research and collaboration in an ethical manner.

9

Support those who report violations of college or university policies and standards.

Commit to Openness and a Growth Mindset

1

Commit to continually learning and growing. Honor that no one can know what they do not know until they are taught otherwise. Recognize that none of us know everything and everyone has something to offer.

2

Operate with positive intentions and take accountability when positive intentions do not yield the intended outcome.

3

Be receptive to discussions of ways to improve the culture, environment, and relationships of the college.

4

Receive feedback with an open mind. View constructive critique as an opportunity to improve even further.

5

Challenge your own assumptions about people and the sources of those assumptions.

Take Initiative

1

Take it upon yourself to eliminate challenges or barriers to success that members may face.

2

Intervene when others exhibit conduct unbecoming of a community member.

3

Speak up when others are disrespectful.

4

Acquaint yourself with Ohio State's policies on sexual misconduct and codes of conduct. Fulfill all associated reporting obligations.

Principles adapted from the Ohio State Department of Linguistics and Ohio State Department of Astronomy, both of which adapted their respective codes of conduct from the Princeton Department of Physics.

The American Association of University Professors \(AAUP\) Statement of Professional Ethics

We highlight the following key points:

1

The primary responsibility of professors is to seek and state the truth as they see it. They accept the obligation to exercise critical self-discipline and judgment in using, extending, and transmitting knowledge. They practice intellectual honesty.

2

As teachers, professors encourage the free pursuit of learning in their students. They avoid any exploitation, harassment, or discriminatory treatment of students. They acknowledge significant academic or scholarly assistance from them. They protect their academic freedom.

3

As colleagues, professors have obligations that derive from common membership in the community of scholars. Professors do not discriminate against or harass colleagues. They respect and defend the free inquiry of associates, even when it leads to findings and conclusions that differ from their own.
